Challenges

organisation

01 Low engagement & productivity
Improving employee engagement and productivity is hard, and likely to be harder with hybrid working

02 Low adoption
Organisations are unable to realise their investment in Microsoft 365 and unleash its full potential

03 Sprawl of data
Knowledge sharing is more difficult as we introduce new data silos and create end-user confusion end users

01 I can't find stuff
Employees can spend 1.8 hours searching and gathering information per day - McKinsey

02 Too many apps
The average person has 60-90 apps. 69% of workers waste up to an hour per day navigating between apps - R*ingCentral*

03 Too many silos
Inefficient communication and substandard collaboration costs £8k/person p.a. (Raconteur)
Only 2% of businesses feel they are effective at data sharing (customerTHINK)

Hybrid Workplace Blog Series

Hybrid working strategies at a company level

By Faris Aranki on May 5, 2021 in Best practice, Hybrid working

Over the last couple of weeks I've been making the most of the easing of restrictions here in the UK and taken the opportunity to meet clients for real world coffees (as much as I like zoom coffees* nothing beats the real world version).

How to make hybrid working successful

By Petula Aardenburg on April 7, 2021 in Digital transformation, Best practice, Hybrid working

In the news we are seeing daily reports of organisations embracing hybrid working. As with any major shift, careful consideration needs to be given to the sustainability of such changes. To adopt hybrid working successfully organisations need to think about certain themes that are emerging:

Recreating Water Cooler Moments Online

By Katya Linossi on November 10, 2020 in Communication and collaboration, Hybrid working Casual interactions are a natural way for humans to connect, especially when in an office environment. Whether it's grabbing a coffee in the kitchen first thing, or throwing around concepts over the office water cooler, some of the most creative, profitable business ideas have come from these interactions.

Q&A

01 Ideas to leverage M365 better for cross functional projects.

02 Our organization is currently working remotely, and I would like to be able to assist the organization to maintain or increase its productivity.

03 Tips to guide some electronic file/email clean-up days

04 Interested in learning how to maximise the potential of the ever-evolving Microsoft 365 suite whilst keeping governance and control of our information.

05 I sometimes find it difficult to filter out unnecessary information that gets thrown my way. I would like to be better able to focus on the important information to be more productive.

06 Improved understanding of new ways of working
